Here is a very simplified version of my code. My input field: location_on location_on And my function in my separate file: function myFunction() { alert("You are in the location!"); } What I would like to do is take the value from that field, and call the function. In my case the function would call the alert. I hope my question is clear, and someone can help me! A: I'm not familiar with Material, but here is a basic example of how you would do this in vanilla Javascript: HTML:
